MRS. EMMA STAHL AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW ARE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Machine Plunges Over Embankment, Near Clear Springs, and Women Are Pinned Underneath; Robert N. Stahl, Driver of Car Escapes With Cuts on Head and Body.

Mrs. Emma Stahl, Carlisle street, was instantly killed; her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Robert N. Stahl, Washington, D. C., suffered injuries which resulted in her death, and the latter's husband was slightly injured when the automobile, driven by Robert N. Stahl, plunged over a n embankment and upset along the Western 'pike, a short distance east of Licking Creek, near Clear Spring, Maryland, Monday afternoon.

After passing several days in Gettysburg with Mrs. Stahl, Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Stahl, accompanied by Mr. Stahl's mother, left here Monday morning on an automobile trip over the territory covered by Mr. Stahl, who is a salesman for a drug concern.

Skids and Slips

They had just rounded a curve on the Western 'pike when the machine began to skid and slipped from the road.

Stahl succeeded in righting the car, but could not bring it back onto the highway. It continued to run along the ground below the roadway and striking a large boulder, turned over, pinning the two women beneath it.

Stahl had either jumped or was thrown from the car before it upset and landed in the middle of the road. Four other machines which were following Stahl's car also skidded on rounding the curve, but their drivers succeeded in keeping them on the road. The first of the cars narrowly missed striking Stahl as he lay stunned in the road.

Hagerstown authorities were called to the scene of the accident and upon arrival of Justice J. Scott Bower, acting coroner, found Mrs. Emma Stahl dead.

Dies On Way

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stahl were placed in an ambulance and rushed to Hagerstown. Mrs. Robert Stahl died before reaching Hagerstown.

Stahl himself was not seriously injured. He suffered cuts about the head and body, and after receiving medical treatment in Hagerstown went to a hotel where he spent the night.

Justice Bower, the acting coroner, deemed an inquest unnecessary and gave a verdict of accidental death.

Charles Stahl, Esq., Broadway, brother-in-law of Mrs. Emma Stahl, was notified of the tragedy Monday evening and immediately went to Hagerstown to assist his nephew in having the bodies of the latter's mother and wife prepared for burial.

Funeral From Here

The bodies of the accident victims are expected to arrive in Gettysburg this evening. It is understood they will be taken to the home of Charles Stahl, Broadway, from where funeral services will be held, after which burial will be made in Evergreen Cemetery.

Before leaving on the ill-fated trip Monday morning, Mrs. Emma Stahl, who occupies an apartment in the Butt apartment, Carlisle street, left keys to her apartment with Mrs. J. L. Butt, who resides next door. Mrs. Stahl was looking forward eagerly to the motor trip with her son and his wife. The trip would have taken them eventually to Niagara Falls.

Mrs. Stahl, who was 68 years old, was the widow of Thomas J. Stahl, former editor of the Gettysburg Compiler, who died November 15, 1910. Robert Stahl is Mrs. Stahl's only survivor, a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Strevig, having died in 1918. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stahl have no children.

Mrs. Robert Stahl, who was a native of the South, was 38 years old. Mrs. Stahl, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wolf, of East Berlin, was active in Trinity Reformed church, particularly in missionary work. Her pastor, the Rev. N. L. Horn, will conduct the double funeral services.

G. A. R. MARCHES AGAIN IN BOSTON

(By Associated Press.)

Boston, Aug. 12.—The Grand Army of the Republic marched again today. Survivors of the two million who turned out at Lincoln's call 60 odd years ago they made a show of strength in a drizzle of rain that was inspiring.

The department of Illinois had the honor place among the departments as the first to be formed. Then came the Department of Wisconsin and Pennsylvania, the latter with nearly 200 veterans in line, some with the McClellan cap of war time, a few with the ragged coats of their campaign.

AID TO CRIPPLES PLEDGED BY ROTES

Local Organization Joins Pennsylvania Society For Crippled Children; Warner Hospital To Help.

HARRY H. HOWETT SPEAKS

Members of the Gettysburg Rotary Club at their regular weekly luncheon meeting Monday evening, held at the Quaker Valley Country Club voted unanimously to join the Pennsylvania Society for Crippled Children; to cooperate with the state association in the furtherance of proper legislation seeking to assist the crippled children of this state and pledged their financial support in the successful promulgation of the movement in the Keystone State.

This action was taken following an address by Harry H. Howett, executive secretary of the International Society for Crippled Children and brief remarks by Dr. J. M. Dickson.

Dr. Dickson informed the Rotarians that the Annie Warner Hospital would lend all possible assistance in movement. He suggested that the parents of all crippled children in this community be informed that every effort will be made to alleviate the suffering and affliction of their children and urged that the club adopt the following program:

Examine Children

That the mothers be urged to bring their children to the Annie Warner Hospital some time during the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock in the morning during the next two weeks; that a careful and thorough examination will be conducted by hospital physicians and that after every crippled child's case has been thoroughly investigated, Dr. S. E. Rueh, of Philadelphia, would be brought here to conclude any medical attendance necessary to secure the complete recovery of the afflicted child.

Doctor Dickson stated that a movement of this nature had been inaugurated in Gettysburg some time ago, and that a clinic was held. "This," said Doctor Dickson, "did not meet with the approval and satisfaction of the parents of the children or the physicians interested." The speaker stated that the suggestion of investigating and examination of all crippled cases first, would be more satisfactory and that the work could be expedited to the satisfaction of all.

This proposal met with the approval of the members of the committee on crippled children and this will be considered as the principal move in the problem now being delved into by the local club.

Howett Explains Work

Mr. Howett in his address explained how the state of Ohio conducted its successful campaign for state legislation to aid crippled children of that state; how each community was held responsible for the proper assistance to each afflicted child, not only in the matter of medical attention, but in education and welfare work.

Mr. Howett declared himself as opposed to state institutions, stating that such institutions do not meet with the satisfaction of the parents, (Continued on Third Page)

LIONS ENDORSE 'DEFENSE DAY'

Local Organization Puts Stamp of Approval on Movement Will Aid With Program Here.

Support of the Lions Club, of Gettysburg, of National Defense Day, September 12, was pledged at the regular weekly luncheon meeting of that organization at the Hotel Gettysburg, Monday evening.

A brief outline of what National Defense Day means and how it will be observed here and elsewhere was given by Dr. E. A. Miller, county coroner, and member of the Lions, who heads the military committee in Adams county for the celebration of Defense Day.

"The day is the anniversary of the Battle of St. Mihiel. Peace organizations have protested the plan and it has been referred to as a 'military gesture.' However, President Coolidge favors the plans of the day as outlined by the War Department, and which were originated by General Pershing.

In brief, the government plans a turnout of the regular army, the National Guard, the organized Reserves and any other male citizens of military age, who wish to take part, Dr. Miller said. The day, he continued, has one chief object: A test mobilization to see how quickly companies, battalions, regiments and brigades can be assembled in emergency.

Details Lacking

Details of how Gettysburg and Adams county will celebrate the day have not yet been worked out fully, according to Dr. Miller. Cooperating with the military committee in planning the celebration of the day, will be a civilian committee composed of C. W. Cook, Charles W. Gardner, John W. Brehm, William D. Gilbert, George W. Boehner, Herbert L. Grimm and the Rev. W. C. Robinson.

Extensive field exercises are not projected, according to Dr. Miller. In general, the main observance of the day will be assemblies of citizens and parades of military units. Local events will be in charge of the military and civilian committees.

It is expected that Gettysburg's historical associations will result in more extensive maneuvers here on that day than in many other towns of the country. Officers of the National Guard and Regular Army men are (Continued on Second Page)

LUCKY "POP"

When Howard "Pop" Miting-er was asked last evening at the Rotary luncheon "how come you're sporting an 'imported' shirt?" the genial manager of the Hotel Hoffman replied:

"While in Harrisburg today, I attended a Rotary meeting. When I entered their dining room for lunch, one of the members invited me to accept his chair. I did so, and found a card with a number thereon, at my place. A brother Rotarian next to me offered to enlighten me, when he perceived the mystified expression on my face; he said: 'Each week some member of the club furnishes little awards or prizes and this week a haberdasher is giving away a beautiful shirt to the holder of the lucky number.'"

"I held the lucky number."

"GIBBY" CAVORTS ON FREE "SPREE"

A runaway occurred Monday afternoon when the horse owned by "Gibby" Walter, of near town, bolted on West Middle street. The frightened animal ran into the alley at the rear of the court house and turned east in the alley between the Gettysburg Department Store and the Bender apartments.

At the corner of the alley and Baltimore street, the wagon to which the horse was hitched, was thrown against a telephone pole, freeing the runaway animal.

The horse, dragging the shafts and single tree, continued for a short distance on Baltimore street until it slipped and fell. Before it could arise, it was caught by J. William Murray. Broken shafts, and torn harness were the only damages resulting.

Funeral Services Held This Morning

Funeral services for Levi J. Osborne, who died at his home in Cumberland township, Sunday morning, were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the Pines church, near New Chester, conducted by the Rev. Harold Little. Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Pallbearers were Walter S. Smith, Oliver Harmon, Harvey Cashman and Luther Minter.

LINEMAN INJURED IN 20-FOOT FALL

Frank Finkey, Newville, Taken to Hospital After Falling From Carlisle Street Pole.

Frank Finkey, of Newville, lineman for the Cumberland Valley Telephone Company, fell a distance of twenty feet from a pole on which he was working on Carlisle street at 10:30 o'clock this morning, and was painfully injured.

What caused Finkey to fall from the pole cannot be definitely determined, even by those who were working with him. It is thought, however, that he slipped out of his safety belt. Harry Bitner, of Harrisburg, foreman of the line crew with which Finkey was working, said he was unable to say what caused the man to fall from the pole.

The injured man was taken to the Warner Hospital where an examination disclosed that he suffered a fractured right wrist, a sprained right ankle, contusions on the back and lacerations on the head.

AGED GUIDE DIES AT HOME MONDAY

George W. Myers, for the past thirty years a battlefield guide, died at the Playground lodge, his home, at 8:45 o'clock, Monday evening following a lingering illness from cancer of the throat. He was 72 years of age.

Mr. Myers was born and spent his entire life in Gettysburg. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mathilda Smith, who is 92 years old; his wife, Mrs. Bertha Myers, and two sisters, Mrs. Emma Codori, Rochester, New York, and Mrs. Edward Dull, Gettysburg.

Funeral services from the funeral parlors of H. B. Bender and Son, Baltimore street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. E. E. Runkle, pastor of the New Oxford Methodist Episcopal church, in the absence of the Rev. Harry Daniels, pastor of the local M. E. Church, his pastor. Interment in Evergreen Cemetery.

YANKEE FLIERS PLAN TO LEAVE NORTH THURSDAY

(By Associated Press.)

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 12.—The Gertrude Rask, Danish supply ship of the American 'round the world aviators arrived last night on the east coast of Greenland Major Clarence E. Crumyne reported today.

The supply ship which broke through yesterday as the icepack in which it had been imprisoned since last Tuesday found ice and weather conditions generally improved. On receiving the news from the Gertrude Rask Lieutenant L. H. Smith commander of the flight announced that he and Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson would leave Reykjavik on the next lap of the trip on Thursday if weather permitted the take off.

COUNTY FARMER ACHIEVES GOAL

Daniel Hoffman, Brysonia, Entitled to Gold Medal When Litter of Ten Pure Breds Reach Mark.

At least one of the fourteen litters of pigs in Adams county, entered in the State ton-litter contest, has "made the grade" and the owner, Daniel Hoffman, Brysonia, is entitled to one of the gold medals offered to feeders whose litters make the ton weight within the period of 180 days.

R. E. Underwood, county farm agent, weighed Mr. Hoffman's litter of ten pure bred Chester-Whites on Monday and found the pigs weighed 2,120 pounds, one hundred and twenty pounds in excess of the ton mark. The result of Mr. Hoffman's feeding was termed by County Agent Underwood a "unique accomplishment."

Accurate figures on the amount and quality of feed and the amount of water consumed by the Hoffman litter during the 180-day period in which they were entered in the ton litter contest, were kept.

350 Gallons of Water

During the last thirty days, Mr. Hoffman's litter consumed 1,538 pounds of feed, and during the same period drank an average of 350 gallons of water each day. The litter was brought up on oats and rape pasture.

The total gain of the litter during the last thirty days was 523 pounds.

Besides the gold medal to which Mr. Hoffman is entitled and which will be presented to him by State College by which the ton-litter contest is being conducted, he is entitled to membership in the State Ton Litter Club, whose membership is drawn from raisers of pigs with similar records.

A number of the other pig raisers in Adams county entered in the ton litter contest are coming close to the ton mark. Weighing of the other (Continued on Second Page)

CAR WRECKED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

Application of Brakes Swerves Car Around; Occupants Alight and Machine Backs Onto Tracks.

The touring car of Harry W. Lower, Aspers, was wrecked, when it ran backward into the path of a freight engine at Brush Run crossing on the Lincoln Highway, Monday night, at 9:45 o'clock, after the driver, Mr. Lower, and Dennis Asper and Harry Guiden, also of Aspers, got out after the machine had skidded.

The three men were on their way home from East Berlin where they had attended a meeting of the committees of the Adams County Firemen's Association, planning for their annual picnic and meeting.

As they approached the Brush Run crossing, an oncoming freight train was noticed by the occupants of the machine and Mr. Lower was advised to stop the car before the tracks were reached.

Mr. Lower applied the brakes rather suddenly and the machine swung around on the highway which was slippery, as a result of a slight rainfall. After the car came to a stop within a few feet of the railroad tracks, the three men got out.

Mr. Lower, it is believed, released the brakes of the machine when he and his two companions got out, and the car, which had come to a stop on a slight grade, backed onto the tracks.

Charles Wilson, detective for the Western Maryland railroad, made an investigation of the accident this morning.

DAVIS ACCEPTS NOMINATION IN OLD HOME TOWN

Candidate to Make Intensive Drive Over Country; Opens Series of Speeches In Columbus Aug. 26.

(By Associated Press.)

Clarksburg, West Va., Aug. 12.—Having sounded the battle cry of his party, John W. Davis Democratic presidential candidate prepared today to begin an intensive drive over the country.

In a series of speeches, the first of which will be delivered at Columbus, Ohio, on August 26, Mr. Davis will treat in more detail those subjects which he announced in his acceptance address here last night he views as the outstanding issues of the campaign. Late today Mr. Davis will say goodbye again to his neighbors and friends and leave for New York where he will have further conferences with party leaders before visiting National headquarters at Washington next week.

Senator James Reed Bolts Republicans

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 12.—James A. Reed, U. S. Senator from Missouri, will support the Democratic ticket, state and national, he declared in a statement here today. The Missouri Senator said that although he did not agree with Mr. Davis' views on certain international problems he understood from the Presidential nominee's address that he "pledges their will be no entrance into the league of nations until the people have by vote approved such a course." Mr. Reed said that "With that attitude I am contented."

STATE CONTINUES DEFENSE ATTACK

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Aug. 12.—The state continued its lengthy cross examination of Dr. H. S. Hulbert, last of the defense alienists in the Franks hearing this morning, laying its ground for introduction of the rebuttal testimony.

In preparing for the introduction of Dr. Rollin T. Woodard, Robert E. Crowe, State's Attorney renewed his attack on the series of functional disorders of the endocrine glands, set up by Dr. Hulbert, as responsible for the "mental sickness" of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, which permitted them to kidnap and slay Bobby Franks.

Dr. Hulbert four days on the stand testified that persons suffering from endocrine disease are slayers in light and soominated Leopold.

RUHR EVACUATION LIMIT UNSETTLED

(By Associated Press.)

London, Aug. 12.—The French and German delegates to the International conference today resumed their struggle for a compromise on a time limit for the evacuation of the Ruhr one of the questions which is holding up the work of the conference and which must be disposed before the conference can proceed in a definite way with the program for instituting the Dawes repatriation plan.

The Germans say that the evacuation should be completed within six months after it has been started while the French are holding out for one year.

CHURCH PRESENTS COMEDY SATURDAY

"Peggy's Predicament," a farce comedy, will be presented in the yard of the Reformed church, McKnightstown, Saturday evening, August 16, under the auspices of the young peoples' division of the Sunday school. The performance is scheduled to start at 8:15.

In the cast are Miss Katharine Rindlaub, as Peggy Wilson, a bride; Miss Ruth Cluck, as Helen West, her sister; Miss Alma Weikert, as Rita Mason, her cousin; Miss Pauline Ditzler, as Mabel Mason, her chum's sister; Mrs. Clinton Hauger, as Dorothy Warren, her cousin, and William Ditzler, as the janitor.

The proceeds of the entertainment, together with those from a festival which will precede it, will go toward the purchase of a new piano for the church.

Don't forget the big festival at Ground Oak Church, August 14th, 6:30. Music by special orchestra. adv. 1.

UNIONTOWN BABY KIDNAPPED BY MEN

Four-Year-Old Child Disappears While at Picnic; 100 Boy Scouts, Firemen and Others Search.

Frostburg, Md., Aug. 12.—An organized search was under way here today for 4-year-old Mary Katherine Mitchell, of Uniontown, believed to have been kidnapped by four men in an automobile yesterday, while her family was attending a picnic in the woods near Frostburg.

No trace of the little girl had been found up to noon today, though more than 100 Boy Scouts, firemen and other men and women were assisting police in their search in the mountains.

The girl, said to have been dressed in expensive clothing, leading the supposed kidnappers to believe that she came from a wealthy family, was last seen about 1 p. m., Sunday. An hour later a party of girl campers reported seeing the child being taken toward the mountains by four men in an automobile.

The child's father, James W. Mitchell, an automobile mechanic, returned to Frostburg this morning, after having taken his family to his home in Uniontown. Mitchell said he has received no demand for ransom as yet and is inclined to believe that the child strayed away from the picnic party and got lost.

Frostburg police, however, believe the girl was kidnapped, pointing out that the child was expensively dressed and that the family came here from Uniontown in a large touring car.

expected to assist with the celebration of Defense Day here.

Any civilian wishing to take part may do so by presenting himself to the proper authorities on that day, according to plans. If he has had previous military experience he may be assigned to some unit of the army or National Guard for that day. If not, he may be placed in the reserve unit. His term of "service" will be over at the end of Defense Day.

The units taking part in the defense mobilization will be inspected under the supervision of corps area commanders, and exact reports made to the Secretary of War respecting the success or failure of the test. No funds are available for paying for the services of those taking part in the test, but it is expected that if observance of the day is general, Defense Day will become an annual holiday.

Before relating details of Defense Day and before the Lions voted to support the mobilization plan, Dr. Miller told some of his experience in France with the British army medical corps. His description of the Battle of Ypres and Amiens was particularly vivid and entertaining.

A committee consisting of Dr. C. G. Crist, William G. Weaver, C. B. Dougherty, Ivan G. Naugle and C. Ross Shuman was appointed to arrange for a treat for children between certain ages at the Playground in the near future, under the auspices of the club.

REFUSES APPEAL

New York, Aug. 12.—Judge Benjamin N. Cordosa today denied the application of William H. Anderson, former superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, for a certificate of reasonable doubt which would have permitted Anderson to leave Sing Sing on bail, pending his appeal for a new trial.

Anderson is serving a term for forgery in the third degree.

YOUTH BRANDED BY GIRL WEEK AGO

Danville, Ill., Aug. 12.—Held by three men on a highway between Rankin and Paxton, while a fourth member of the party, a woman, branded him with the letters, "K. K. K.", Ralph Aaron, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aaron, of Rankin, made no report of the attack for several days, until he was compelled to visit a physician, it was learned yesterday.

He was branded one week ago Saturday night, he said, as he was returning from Paxton. West of that town he came upon a girl who was having trouble with her automobile. His offer of assistance was accepted, and he had just started work when three men grabbed him and tore off his clothing. The girl applied the iron, he said.

BUTLER PLEADED WITH NEW PLAN

Philadelphia Director of Public Safety Declares Redistricting Plan Is Successful.

Philadelphia, Aug. 12.—"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of the same."

The foregoing is a direct quotation from General Smedley Darlington Butler, director of public safety, who admitted without a quiver that he was quoting it from somebody or other, but he amplified it to remark that the police department, as shown by the records since his "redistricting plan" began to spread and take on life, is working better and producing better results than ever before.

All of South Philadelphia and all of West Philadelphia, it was learned Monday, have been redistricted. The "old tenderloin" is in process of redistricting. It is hoped to have the whole job done and working smoothly before the end of the present month.

As General Butler's plan, which has aroused the fire of politicians more than anything else he has ever done since becoming head of the department, goes forward, ward lines, formerly coextensive with police districts, are being wiped out, and with that the one thing has been done that will wipe out the control of a police lieutenant by a ward boss.

Back of what has been accomplished, however, there is a big drag on the police force, because a proportion of the men in the new districts are not "sailing in" to make things hum. They still fear the politicians, and until they know beyond question that General Butler is to be retained the full power of the police against vice and crime will not be exerted.

Loses Both Hands; Pleads For Death

DAVIS INDICTS G. O. P. FOR HAVING SHAKEN CONFIDENCE OF PUBLIC

"Gross Favoritism To Privileged and Utter Disregard of Un- privileged" As- serts Leader.

(By Associated Press.)

Clarksburg, W. Va., August 12.—The supreme need of the hour is to bring back to the people confidence in their government, John W. Davis declared last night in his address accepting the Democratic Presidential nomination.

Formally putting under way the national campaign of 1924, he indicted the Republican party "in its organized capacity for having shaken public confidence to its very foundations," and laid against it these specific charges:

"Having exhibited deeper and more widespread corruption than any that this generation of Americans has been called upon to witness.

"Complicity in the face of that corruption and with ill will towards the efforts of honest men to expose it.

"Gross favoritism to the privileged and utter disregard of the unprivileged.

"Indifference to world peace and timidity in the conduct of foreign affairs.

"Disorganization, division and incoherence."

To Pass Judgment

Declaring that on the record he would ask the voters of the country to pass judgment of condemnation, "as a warning to all men who aspire to public office, that dishonesty, either in thought, word or deed, will NOT be tolerated in America," Mr. Davis said the Democratic party was prepared to offer in exchange a "program based on Democratic principles and guaranteed by a record of Democratic performance."

The chief things to which he pledged himself were:

An honest impartial, and, so far as human wisdom will permit, a just government.

Opposition to any challenge—"organized or unorganized under whatever name or in whatever character it may appear"—of the Constitutional guarantees of religious freedom.

Enforcement of all laws, including the Prohibition Amendment and statutes enacted under it.

Agricultural aid through revision of the tariff; governmental assistance in extending the cooperative marketing principle and by other means.

Taxation

Reduction in taxation and revision of the tariff.

Economy in government, but NOT of the kind that deprives government employees of pay equal to that they would receive from private employers for similar work.

Approval of the World Court.

Cooperation officially with all legitimate endeavors, whether from the League of Nations or from any other source, to lessen the prospect of war; to aid in repairing the ravages of past wars; to promote disarmament and to advance the well being of mankind.

To maintain the means of adequate national defense "until reason is permitted to take the place of force."

In opposition to the impairment, "either by injunction or by any other device" of the rights of labor to organize and to bargain collectively for "an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions."

The protection of women and children from human greed and unequal laws.

Prevention of child labor and suppression of the illicit traffic in soul destroying drugs.

Conservation of all of the natural resources of the country.

"Grateful care" to the "veterans of our wars, especially to those who were stricken and wounded in the country's service and whose confidence has been so cruelly and corruptly abused."

Finally, Mr. Davis said he entered the campaign free from pledge or promise to any man and would "hold it so to the end." Also he declared that when it became necessary to raise funds for the conduct of the campaign they would be contributed "with this understanding and this only: that neither the Democratic party nor I as its leader have any favors for sale."

Expressing in general terms his approval of the proposals contained in the platform adopted by the convention which nominated him, the candidate said he could NOT be expected at this moment to discuss them in detail or to outline the methods by which they are to be carried into effect.

"There will be time enough for that," he said.

Much of his address was given over to a measured attack upon the record of the Republican party during the past four years. Recounting what he termed "the multiplied scandals of these melancholy years," Mr. Davis assailed the Executive Branch of government for "hurried efforts to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy upon investigators and, finally, by trumped up indictment, to frighten and deter" the investigators from their pursuit.

He charged that in the enactment of the present tariff law there was "an unblinking return to the evil days of rewarding party support and political contributions with legislative favors." Also he charged inability of the ad-

Walsh Hails Nominee as Leader Fitted By "Character, Training and Great Ex- perience."

(By Associated Press.)

Clarksburg, W. Va., Aug. 12.—John W. Davis was hailed as a leader fitted by "character, training and experience" for the Presidency, in the address of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, here last night, formally notifying him of his nomination to head the Democratic party.

Tried by the touchstone, the acid test, Mr. Walsh said, the nominee had been adjudged by all fair-minded men as a Liberal and a Progressive.

"In the 62nd Congress, he continued, 'you were conspicuous in the advocacy of every measure that served to differentiate the reactionary from the progressive. You assailed 'government by injunction,' set forth with a great wealth of illustrations, the abuse of that progress and of the power to punish for contempt, and supported with marked ability and eloquent tongue the effort, subsequently successful, to remove or minimize the opportunity for oppressing labor through resort to that remedy. In the same Congress you supported with zeal and learning the Webb-Kenyon bill, the farthest advance then considered toward suppressing through federal action the unspeakable evils of the liquor traffic. The entire program or remedial legislation entered upon when the Wilson administration assumed control of our national government had your cordial support."

Charge Unwarranted

After summarizing Mr. Davis' record in advocating progressive legislation and later supporting it before the Supreme Court, Senator Walsh declared the argument "that you are a Wall Street man, in an opprobrious sense, is without merit, as is the assertion that your nomination is a Wall Street nomination."

"Let the campaign then be waged," he said, "upon the political issues which divide the major political parties. These I conceive to be, in the main, four: Honesty in government! revision of the tariff; the maintenance in principle of the present income tax law, and frank cooperation with the nations of Europe for the restoration of peace and the revival of industry to ensure an increased demand for our surplus, mainly of agricultural products."

Senator Walsh said the "head and front" of Mr. Davis' "offending" had been nothing more or less than that since retiring to private life he had been employed professionally by "gigantic business interests" whose policy had aroused "quite general indignation."

Legal Adviser

"It is not advanced," he said, "that you have represented them in any capacity except as legal adviser or as their advocate before the courts. It is not charged that you have been either the defender of or apologist for their misdeeds in public address or through the press, or that you have forwarded or attempted to forward their plans before either legislative assemblies or administrative officers."

"You have been retained, as it is understood, to render such services as a lawyer may legitimately perform."

"A lawyer may honorably defend one accused of murder, or treason, or of defrauding widows and orphans without suspicion of sympathy with such hideous crimes or with violators of the law generally or specifically. How, then, does a lawyer forfeit the regard in which he would otherwise be held by accepting employment from those whose career is open to censure on grounds of public policy or who may have been guilty of even the grossest violations of the laws declaring and enforcing the same?"

"It is an unjustifiable inference that your views on matters of public concern approximate those of your employers or that called to high public office you would, upon any consideration, accommodate your own to theirs or grant them anything but justice. You owe them nothing, not even gratitude. You have rendered them service. They paid you. Your powerful clients never discovered you until your fame as a lawyer was firmly established, until your preeminence at the bar was nationally and internationally recognized. I am sure your gratitude is reserved for those humble friends who took a chance on you when you were a struggling at the law, eager to demonstrate your ability, yet unproved."

Senator Walsh gave Mr. Davis, as chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, much credit for the Clayton act, "sometimes referred to as Labor's Magna Charta."

"A feature of your congressional career," he continued, "marked by administration to function due to disagreement between the President and the Republican majority in Congress to agree on public questions."

Declaring that it was not in domestic matters alone that "the symptoms of this creeping paralysis" have appeared, Mr. Davis said that not only have Executive recommendations for adherence to the World Court been "flouted and ignored, but no evidence is in sight that the Republican party as now constituted can frame and carry to its conclusions any definite conspicuous public service, has a peculiar significance at this time when honesty in government assumes a place of first importance in the campaign now opening.

"I remind those interested that under your direction the House of Representatives exposed the infamy of Archbold as a judge of the Court of Commerce and that as one of the managers on the part of the House on the trial before the Senate your conduct of it was marked by distinguished ability."

The career of Mr. Davis, the Senator said, had not hampered his vision.

"Your practice has been general," he said, "one day speaking for some great and possibly ruthless corporation, the next for an impoverished contender against the massed wealth of such or the victim of its ruthlessness; today appearing for interests demanding the process of the law in some industrial war, tomorrow for organized labor striking for living and consistent foreign policy."

"With the reconstruction of Europe weighing heavily on the world," he said, "with American economic life dwarfed and stunted by the interruption of world commerce; with the agricultural regions of the West sinking into bankruptcy because of the loss of their foreign markets; we have stood by as powerless spectators, offering to the world nothing but private charity and individual advice."

Moving from his attack on the opposition to a discussion of other issues, Mr. Davis saved to the last his utterances on the subject which was the basis of a bitter fight in the New York convention—religious freedom. Without referring by name to any organizations, the nominee said he wished to "denounce bigotry, intolerance and race prejudice as alien to the spirit of America" and promised that when elected, he would "set up no standard of religious faith or racial origin" as a qualification for any of the thousands of offices he would be called upon to fill.

For the aid of the farmer, Mr. Davis said the Democrats proposed to see to it that the discriminations which the tariff makes against him shall be removed; that this government by doing its share toward a European settlement shall help to revive and enlarge his foreign markets; that the forces of government shall be put actively to work to lend assistance to endeavors for extending the principle of cooperative marketing; that when widespread distress has overtaken him, every power which the government enjoys under the Constitution shall be exerted in his aid.

"He is entitled, too, to demand an adequate service of transportation at reasonable rates," the candidate said. "In spite of the failures and shortcomings of existing laws, this is an ideal which I can not believe to be beyond the reach of attainment."

Turning to the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Davis told his audience that the Democratic party favored the World Court "in sincerity and not merely for campaign purposes," regarding it as a real advance toward the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

As to the League of Nations, the candidate declared that "we do not and can not accept the dictum unauthorized by any expression of popular will that the League of Nations is a closed incident so far as we are concerned." Adding that at no time had he believed that the entrance of America into the League could occur, would occur or should occur until the common judgment of the American people was ready for the step, he said he was "serenely confident" that a day would come when the voice of public approval would find means to make itself heard.

Promising that if he became President of the United States, America would sit as "an equal among equals whenever she sits at all at international gatherings, Mr. Davis said he could not reconcile it with his ideas of the dignity of a great nation to be represented at such gatherings only "under the poor pretense of 'unofficial observers.'"

JOSSELYN'S WIFE

by Kathleen Norris

"Oh, Gibbs—" she whispered, with a sudden stoppage of breath. "Yes, I know," he said quickly, sympathetic for her distress. "But you must remember this. If I can think of you, living quietly somewhere, not too unhappy, it's going to brace me. I'm not any better than lots of other loving little thing—she was starved for someone to really care for—she reached out for love the way a scared kid might reach out for a kitten! And now she'll never see herself quite like the others—he gave his sister a dubious smile—"she hasn't let me put my arms about her!" he confided.

"Hasn't!" she echoed, amazed. "No," Joe smiled, got to his feet, and sighed. "It's a fine old world!"

he remarked drily. And then with an abrupt change of subject: "I'm so sorry for all this, sis. I wish to God I could spare you this afternoon. When do we go?"

"George calls at three," she answered quietly. "I think I can get through it thinking of Gibbs. I'm praying—I'm praying—that I can't let the last pull, you know—and after this—after this I can faint or be sick or do anything else, for awhile!"

Wearily, she turned to go upstairs with Lizzie and Tommy. Tommy was to lie down and have a favorite book read to him for an hour: the little boy was presumably tired from his trip. Ellen left him when George arrived, and came downstairs.

George, coming in at the hall door, and Joe, who opened it to him, and Aunt Elsie, who came to the dining-room door to greet him, looked at her in amazement and vague alarm. Her face was pale, she was breathing hard, and there was a strange, feverish glitter in her blue eyes; she made a wild gesture that detained them all, and caught George by the wrist. He was instantly given the impression of exhaustion, of desperate determination to say what must be said, before the collapse.

To Ellen the air seemed suddenly thick and soft: she felt it pressing against her.

"No—wait a minute, Auntie!—George and Joe, too—come in here—don't go!" she stammered. She half-dragged, half-threw them into the little parlor. "All stay," she said in a dry whisper. Joe had run for a glass of water, and now beside the chair into which George had put her, and held it to her lips. "Thanks, dear," she whispered. Her eyes moved about from face to face, and her lips moved dully. Then suddenly she made a great struggle, as if for air.

"My God, she's dying!" Mrs. Baldwin exclaimed. But Ellen herself answered her: "No, Auntie—no, I'm all right! And tightening one hand on Joe's, and with the other clinging to George, she said at last: "I've found out who did it, George! I know who fired that shot!"

A silence spread like a fog over the little sitting-room. They all looked at her without speaking. "I'll tell you about it—" Ellen said, after another drink of water. "It happened—I mean my learning about it—half an hour ago. But I didn't dare do anything until George got here." She had so far recovered her composure that she could rise now, and she spoke in an almost normal tone. "George," she said, "I want you to sit here, and Joe and Auntie, will you go back into the back room: just behind the curtains, so that you can hear everything?" And, as they bewilderedly but eagerly obeyed her instructions, she stepped to the hall door, and called "Lizzie!"

Immediately Lizzie came down stairs, as white as Ellen was, with Tommy clinging to her hand. The little boy came running in to his mother, and Ellen caught him in her arms.

"Here's Uncle George, dear!" she said. Tommy indifferently felt himself drawn between the man's knees. George looked dazed at Ellen. "Now, Tom," his mother said casually, "I want you to do something for me. And if you do it nicely, I'm going to read to you for—one whole—hour—tonight!"

"Will you really, moth?" Tommy asked, his eyes dancing.

"Yes, I truly will. Tommy, I want you to tell Uncle George about that night at Wheatley Hills, when you came down—you know—tell him all about it!"

Tommy was looking at her with a guilty child's doubt of his reception. "Grandpa told me to!" he asserted, in self-defense. "I was a captain, and he told me to!"

George glanced at Ellen: they exchanged one look.

"I was telling Tommy a little about the reason why we left Wheatley Hills," Ellen explained. "And he told me why he liked Wheatley Hills. Go on, dear."

Tommy, encircled by George's arm had his mouth close to the man's ear. He spoke in a half-proud, half-shamed voice.

"I said I was sorry about grandpa, because I liked to play in his study! And I said he let me fire his pistol."

And the man and woman exchanged a look of consternation.

Philadelphia—Two baseball games were sliced in between fist fights at the Broad and Huntingdon streets arena Monday afternoon, and the Phillies lost both of them to Pittsburgh. The count in the first was 7-3 and in the second 6-4. The defeats were the eighth and ninth straight for the Phils and the fifth straight to Pittsburgh.

But the baseball was robbed of all its glamor by the personal conflict between Manager Art Fletcher, of the Phils, and Umpire Charley Pfirman.

Staged near the end of the third inning, the bout threatened for a time to draw all the players and a good portion of the 3000 customers into the dispute, which was settled with fists and Pfirman's mask. Players possessing less volatile tempers and police quickly quelled the disturbance.

New York.—The New York Giants broke Carl May's winning streak of nine straight here yesterday, defeating the Reds in the fifth game of the series, 4 to 2.

New York, won the series, three games to two.

Watson pitched a strong game for New York, and was well supported especially by Frisch, Jackson and O'Connell.

A fumble by Jackson let in Cincinnati's first run, but the short stop redeemed the error with two sensational stops and by driving in two runs in the sixth.

Brooklyn.—Brooklyn made it four out of five from St. Louis by winning the last game yesterday, 2 to 1. Blades opened the ninth with a home run.

Four hits gave Brooklyn its two runs in the seventh. Brooklyn won eleven and lost eight with western clubs.

Boston.—Chicago defeated Boston, 3 to 2, yesterday. Kaufman held the Braves to six hits. The fielding and hitting of Grigsby were features. Chicago made two double steals in the second inning, the second scoring one run.

LOCAL YOUTH IS BOOMED BY 'DUNC'

Former Editor of Times, Recommends Gettysburg Boy, Now With Sacramento, to Macks.

"Bill" Duncan, of Philadelphia, former city and sports editor of The Times, has asked "Jimmy" Isaminger, noted baseball writer for the North American, to recommend "Art" Koehler to Connie Mack.

Some days ago Isaminger had an article in his column stating that Cy Perkins was slipping and that Frank Bruggy would not be acceptable as the first string receiver of the Athletics.

Koehler in 1916 was the leading catcher on the Gettysburg Blue Ridge team and was one of the most popular players who ever wore a local uniform. He went from here to Detroit, then to Richmond and since the war has been playing in the fast Pacific Coast League which sends up to the majors so many wonderful recruits.

Last season Artie ranked fifth in the Coast League hitting column and is fourth or "clean up" man in the line up of the Sacramento team.

"Dunc" Says

Said "Dunc" to Isaminger: "The Athletics seem to need a lot of things, among which might be mentioned catchers, as you pointed out in your column the other day. I'd like to mention the name of 'Art' Koehler, formerly of Gettysburg and now of Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League, as the man who might fill the bill for Connie."

"What's keeping Koehler out of the big show? He hit fifth in the league last season and always could throw. He never broke any records for speed in running bases but he's a hard worker and a valuable man out there. Although Strand fived, Simmons and Lamar are two minor stars who have added punch to the team and I think Koehler would do likewise."

"This Blue Ridge League in which Koehler played has turned out some fine ball players. A few are Lu Blue, Billy Sherdel, Jimmy Dykes, Hack Wilson, Bill Lamar, Rube Yarrison, Barnhart, of the Pirates, and Boley, of the Orioles. I'd like to know why Koehler isn't in the big show also."

ARE NEWSPAPERS READ?

General Manager emeritus, Melvin E. Stone, of The Associated Press, says newspapers are not read any more, that the people merely scan the headlines. Tell that to the man who hears the kicks from subscribers. He'll tell you that every line from the dog ear on the first page to the folio number on page five receives its share of attention. He'll take his affidavit to the fact that there are any number of people whose sole business in life is fine-footed combing the paper every day for mistakes. Just print a two-line item about a man named Browne and stick it away without a headline in the most inconspicuous spot in the paper. If you happen to print it without the final "e" the chances are ten to one that you will hear from Browne before the press stops running.

Suppose the make-up man forgets to change the date line at the top of the second page. Inside of half an hour a score of readers will have called up to kid you about it. Just why anybody should read the date line on the second, no newspaper man can tell, but death and taxes aren't any more certain than that it is read religiously every day.

Get off an eighth of a point in some grain quotation that hasn't been traded in for six or eight weeks and it seems as though every owner of a $100 Liberty bond will be calling up to complain of the inaccuracy of the market reports.

Inadvertently make billions read millions somewhere in the middle of a two column article on the agricultural rehabilitation of Yugoslavia and the mathematical sharks will be telling you about it for a week.

Newspapers not read? What in the name of Gutenberg does Mr. Stone think they are printed for? Undoubtedly there is a lot of headline scanning done nowadays and there is also a thorough reading of the errors.

THE SUN

I sometimes wonder what the morning sun
Looks forward to as daily it returns.
As some home-comer in whose breast there burns
The hope to see what friends he loves have done,
What change has been completed or begun;
I fancy, too, that great orb often yearns
To find some proof that we with our concerns

Have tried to make the world a kindlier one.
It sees us daily bent on petty strife,
Sees our great buildings reared for sordid gain,
With now and then some hint of gentler life,
Some small improvement started to remain.
I think the sun exults as on it rolls
The day it finds us caring for our souls.

AGED WIDOW IS
PENN GRADUATE

Happiest Moment in Life of Crippled Widow When She Receives Degree on Thursday.

State College, Pa., August 12.—Crippled since infancy and with over forty years of painful suffering forgotten for the moment, a gray haired woman who went to college because she "just loves to study," will be graduated from the Pennsylvania State College next Thursday night.

She is Mrs. Mary O'Malley Sullivan, of Plains, near Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania, and her story of a brave struggle to make her life a useful one is indeed one of pluck and perseverance.

Left an orphan with a badly injured foot at a tender age, a high school graduate at fourteen, a school teacher at fifteen, a normal school graduate and holder of a practicing pharmacist certificate before she was twenty, widowed eighteen months after marriage, proprietress of a drug store and postmistress in her home town for ten years, college student and civil employee in Washington during the war, three years in hospitals again a student and finally a college graduate, is Mrs. Sullivan's story in a nutshell.

Through it all, two stout curved handle canes have had to be her constant companions, for without them she could not walk.

"It will be the happiest moment of my life!" she exclaimed today, referring to the first annual mid-summer commencement exercises of the college that will take place in the auditorium here next Thursday night, when President John M. Thomas hands her a diploma stating that Penn State awards her the degree of bachelor of arts in the course of education and psychology.

And She Smiles

Her face broke into a happy smile as she said it. Famous surgeons had three times cut into her right foot and limb in an effort to give her full use of it. For three years she knew only hospital life after the "flu" epidemic brought her down while

1812 WAR WIDOWS
DRAW PENSIONS

Thirty-three Widows of Soldiers of That War Are Still on Government's Lists.

Washington.—Thirty-three widows of soldiers who fought in the War of 1812 are still on the pension rolls of the government, although 109 years have elapsed since the close of that conflict in 1815. Eight of the women pensioners died during the year ended June 30. There have been no names of soldiers of the War of 1812 on the pension books since 1905, when Hiram Cronk died in Ava, New York, at the age of 105.

The oldest of the 33 widows receiving pensions, which average $30 a month, or about $12,000 a year, is Mahala Huff, Rural Route No. 2, Louisa, Kentucky, who is 105 years old. Her husband was a private in a Virginia company of militiamen. All told approximately 35,000 widows of veterans of the War of 1812 were granted service pensions, the high water mark being reached in 1879 when there were 18,177 on the rolls.

The records of the Pension Bureau also show that Daniel F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, New York, in 1869 at the age of 109, was the last soldier pensioner of the Revolutionary War, and Esther S. Damon, widow of Noah Damon, who died at Plymouth Union, Vermont, in 1906 at the age of 96, the last name to be scratched from the Revolutionary pension lists.

RECOMMENDED

Found Strength by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kankakee, Illinois.—"My mother-in-law always took your medicine for weakness, and then in the Change of Life it did her so much good that she induced me to take it for a weakness I had for a year and a half. It has strengthened me and now I have a nice baby boy. I do all my own housework now, and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I have the opportunity. I am taking it again for weakness, as my family doctor has recommended it for this purpose."—Mrs. HARRY COULOM, 984 N. Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois.

Real Evidence of Merit
For the relief of female weakness, pains and backache, nervousness and irregularities, with other troubles common to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine.

Its worth is thoroughly established by such letters as the above. There are women everywhere, who, having received benefit, gladly tell other women about it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

How To Sit On The High Cost of Building

THERE'S a certain way to plan and build what you need now; so you can economically add to it later on, when building costs less. A way that a shrewd New England Yankee worked out. Haven't room to tell it here, but send for circular, called "Sitting on the High Cost of Building."

performing emergency duty as a druggist in Washington. She has smiled while attending classes, or struggled with her canes to and from her room in the town, although at times she suffered pains almost unendurable.

She carries only sunshine wherever she goes and has always been a great friend of the younger students. Few classes were missed since she came to Penn State in February of last year, and it was not infrequent to see her hail a young man student on sidewalk or stairway and receive willingly offered aid in walking.

"How old am I?" parried Mrs. Sullivan today. "I feel just like a young girl, though perhaps, I may never see forty again! It is so fine to live here and I just love to study. I believe that I'll come back soon and work for a master's degree. I came to college because I like to study and mingle with young people. I'd like to teach school again for a little while, then I'll be back."

"COME ON PAT"

Salisbury, Eng.—Instead of the old familiar slogan of "Come on Steve" being heard on the racecourse here recently, a new cry of "Come on Pat" was heard in its place. The spectators were calling for Patrick Donoghue, son of Steve Donoghue, one of England's foremost jockeys, who was making his first appearance in public as a jockey.

Suffered Rheumatic Torture For Years

James H. Allen, of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., Once a Cripple, Now Strong and Robust, Gives Secret to Sufferers.

It does not matter to me whether you are disabled with cursed rheumatism or have only occasional twinges, I know that Allenhu, my own discovery, will stop the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and reduce the swollen joints.

I know it will dissolve the uric acid deposits that have become deeply imbedded in joints and muscles and quickly drive every trace of rheumatism from your body. I know this because I was crippled for years and many times was unable to work, and Allenhu made a well, robust, healthy man of me.

I know because since I cured myself, hundreds have taken Allenhu and speedily rid themselves of this agonizing disease.

Allenhu is no lagard; it starts right in at once; it gets into the blood, searches out the poisonous uric acid deposit and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that cause rheumatism, out of the body through the natural channels.

"The blessed relief this marvelous prescription quickly gives has made for it thousands of friends," says People's Drug Store, who has been appointed agent in your city. It is Mr. Allen's own discovery.—adv.

Somebody always gets the worst of a bargain. While democracy is hardly safe, profiteers surely are. About the only thing that everybody is agreed upon is less taxation. The size of a town has nothing to do with the size of the lies its gossips can tell. Everybody is looking for a job where a big salary goes along with pushing a small button. To defend a woman's reputation when she doesn't deserve it—this is where lying becomes almost a virtue. Hez Heck says: "Droopin' mustaches and veils has spoiled many a kiss."

Knowledge that pays!

You gain a degree of satisfaction just in knowing things—what Einstein believes, how radium burns, which kings are still holding thrones. Yet such knowledge gives you little more than just that satisfaction.

By reading advertisements, you gain knowledge that pays . . . that pays you definitely in time, money, comfort and convenience.

Each day in these pages, advertisers tell you of products devised to make you happier. They seek to arouse you to improvements that will enrich your home, lessen your work.

By reading the advertisements, you can know where to secure the best and most serviceable for you. You can avoid inferior goods and uncertain shopping. You can save.

Read the advertisements. You owe it to the advertisers who are trying to serve you—and to yourself.

There is a dependability about advertised commodities.

Better late than never, but better never late.
Virtue, not pedigree, should characterize nobility.

Trust not too much to appearances.
If that cannot be done which you wish, wish what can be done.

The palm is not gained without the dust of labor.
The deepest rivers flow with least sound.

Infant Mortality Rates Are Falling Through Proper Care of Baby's Milk

Babies are healthier. Infant mortality rates are falling steadily. A happy picture of the future is painted by medical experts and social workers at "Baby Week" conferences. The entire race will attain greater longevity, these experts said at the recent Chicago meeting, if progress of the last few years continues.

Mothers of today far out-shine mothers and grandmas of the nineteenth century in care of babies. Many are skilled in calorics, bacteria and hygiene. Still others, however, and in far greater number, ignore vital rules in preparation and care of food. They are in large measure responsible for the mortality rate being up to its present point. To protect the health of the household, and particularly the health of the child, the experts say food should be kept in a good refrigerator with a well-filled ice chamber. Utmost care should be taken with babies' milk. It should never be placed upon a window sill or in any other improvised cooling place, even in cool weather. Bacteria multiply quickly in milk kept in warm temperatures. A low, even temperature is required. Milk even slightly tainted endangers the baby's health.

Modern mothers are learning much about proper diet for baby and for the rest of the household. Moreover, they are learning that ice, the cheapest article in household expenses, is the real safeguard of health. This summer hundreds of health experts are preaching the gospel of the proper care of food as the means of lowering infant mortality and building a stronger race.

wages or individuals charged with illegal acts in aid of a strike.

"Even more fortunately you were privileged to speak for five years before the Supreme Court of the United States in the capacity of solicitor general for all the people of this mighty nation against the contemners of the law of all classes, high and low, against the most odious trusts and monopolies, against the pillagers of the public domain and the insidious robber who plies his nefarious trade of deception and fraud through the mails. Your professional engagements peculiarly fit you, they in no sense disqualify you for eminent service as President of the United States. The Anthracite Trust, the Lumber Trust, the Shoe Machinery Trust, the Steel Trust, found you an antagonist worthy of the highest talent they could command. You fought a good though a losing fight, to uphold the first child labor law and a winning one to maintain the Adamson law."

Senator Walsh vigorously attacked the record of the Republican administration, and spoke of the "shocking scandals" which had "rocked the country." He was especially sharp in his attack on officials connected with the oil leases and charged the ad-

School Boy Is Found In Chicago

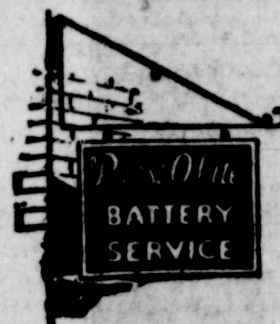

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Lester Allen Lapidus, Omaha high school boy, who disappeared when on his way to a citizens' military training camp, near Des Moines, Iowa, Sunday, August 3, was found here yesterday by representatives of a Chicago newspaper.

Young Lapidus was well and quite happy when located on the far North Side. He said he had come here merely for adventure.

An airplane, aiding in the search for the 17-year-old youth, arrived here today. Lieutenant Martinus Senseth left Des Moines last week accompanied by Myer Jacobs, of Omaha, in search of the lad when he was reported to have telegraphed from Galesburg, Illinois, to Miss Sarah Robinson, of Des Moines.

The plane was placed at the disposal of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lapidus, by Major-General George B. Duncan, of the Seventh Corps Area.

ministration and the Republican party with indifference toward them. Concluding his address with an outline of agricultural and tariff issues, he declared the Democratic party offered a candidate in whom there "will be general pride."

New Treatment For Varicose or Swollen Veins

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. It is guaranteed.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that enlarged glands, wens and even goitre disappear when used steadily.—adv.
